Note: This Bibliography was undertaken by Rondo Elizabeth Wood in 2004. Inconsistencies between this version and Bibliographies in earlier summaries of Kerry Wood's writing occur because in fact, few of Dad's self-published books or pamphlets showed publication dates. This update was made easier because of chronological details in Biographies prepared by my parents under Marjorie Wood's authorship.-- RW 2007.

Anthologies with Kerry Wood's Animal Stories and Humour

Stories by Kerry Wood appeared in many school Texts and Readers, perhaps the best known is:

Up and Away, in the Canadian Reading Development Series, published by The Copp Clark Publishing Co. Limited, Toronto in 1946; this elementary school reader was kept in print for over 20 years. The book included "Mickey, the Beaver", a true story of the adoption of an orphaned beaver by 10-year-old Doris Forbes in Red Deer, written during Mickey's lifetime. (See above Mickey the Beaver and Other Stories.) Up and Away was reprinted with permission for elementary children in Waterloo-Wellington-Perth Parochial Schools, in 2004.

Something to Remember, edited by Elizabeth A Thorn, Carl Braun and M. Irene Richmond (Gage Educational Publishing Limited, Canada, 1973). Two stories by Kerry Wood were included: "Great Horned MacOwl" (reprinting Kerry Wood's pamphlet), and "Song of the Night Rider" where a cattle stampede was averted.

The Best Canadian Animal Stories, edited by Muriel Whitaker (Toronto, McClelland & Stewart, 1997), included "The Dark-eyed Doe" by Kerry Wood. This story about a hunter and a blind deer was included in KW's Willowdale, and in many magazines throughout his career.

More Stories to Appreciate, edited by Amsey Martin (Wallenstein, Ontario, Vineyard Publications, 2005) is a collection of fifteen stories for elementary children. Kerry Wood's story about animals and a man in a forest fire "The Broken Truce" was included. (Permission by RW and HWL.)

High Flight, a collection of fiction and poetry for youngsters was published in the Canadian Reading Development Series, by The Copp Clark Publishing Co. Limited, Toronto in 1951. It included a Kerry Wood essay about a pair of Canada Geese, entitled "Music in the Sky". This publication was reprinted in a Revised edition by the Waterloo-Wellington-Perth Parochial Schools, Hawkesville, Ontario, in their Reading Development Series, in 2008. (Permission by RW and HWL.)

Shining Skies, another collection in the Canadian Reading Development Series, was published by The Copp Clark Publishing Co. Limited, Toronto in 1952. It included a Kerry Wood story "Runaway Bull". This publication was reprinted in a Revised edition by the Waterloo-Wellington-Perth Parochial Schools, Hawkesville, Ontario, in their Reading Development Series, in 2009. (Permission by RW and HWL.)

Honoured--

The Literary History of Alberta Volume Two, published by the University of Alberta Press, Edmonton, T6G 2E2, written and copyright George Melnyk, 1999. (The first Volume subtitled "From Writing-on-Stone to World War Two" does not mention Kerry Wood at all.) Volume Two covers "from the end of the War to the end of the Century", Melnyk's subtitle. Kerry Wood is featured in a new chapter "Children's Literature" pages 151 – 153; written in 1998-99:

"The grandfather of children's fiction in Alberta is Kerry Wood (1907- ) of Red Deer, who began publishing in the late 1940s... He became known as Alberta's leading post-war naturalist, who helped set up wildlife sanctuaries across Canada and whose work is honoured by the Kerry Wood Nature Centre in Red Deer's Waskasoo Park..." (Books mentioned by Melnyk: Cowboy Yarns, The Map-Maker, Great Chief, Queen's Cowboy, Wild Winter, Willowdale, Mickey the Beaver.. and Samson's Long Ride.) Melnyk concludes: "In total, he produced almost a dozen major books of fiction ranging from children's books to young-adult novels. He also self-published numerous other books and pamphlets, both fiction and non-fiction, that described his life as a naturalist. In all of them the history, flora and fauna of Alberta were central."
